

Appendix D

Projects Implemented on the Hoosier NF since 1991

On-going Projects and Existing Permits

The effects of ongoing projects (based on decisions made prior to initiation of formal consultation) are addressed in National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) documents and in each site-specific biological evaluation (BE) for those projects. During development of these NEPA documents and BE's, current research, literature, and other scientific information on each species was considered. Evaluation of relevant current information concluded in each case that current Forest Plan management direction and guidance provide direction that enables the USDA Forest Service to take actions which protect and maintain high quality habitat for these species across the Forest. Activities or projects which implement the current Forest Plan would, in many cases, benefit these species, and at the least, would not result in adverse impacts.
